Winter Club Care Tips:

- Scrub your clubs. If you've let standards slip and your clubs are looking grubby, you'll need to give them a thorough clean at home. Warm soapy water and a thorough drying will get them looking new again.
- Clean your golf bag. Start by removing your tees, balls and any other gear from the various compartments. This is the perfect opportunity to jot down if you're running low on any stocking fillers too. Now gently scrub a clean cloth or soft rag with soap and warm water all over your bag before rinsing with clean water. Use a stain remover where necessary and leave to dry in the bath overnight.
- Store appropriately. It's important to take your clubs out of the cold to protect them from the elements. Low temperatures can cause grips to crack and shafts to contract, making them more vulnerable to damage. Store your clubs in a location that is both warm and dry.
